

Reciprocal Licensing Agreements with Other States

The State of Iowa Electrical Examining Board has reciprocal licensing agreements with Minnesota, Nebraska and South Dakota. The applicant must have passed a State- sponsored examination, held the qualifying license for 1 year, and must meet Iowa licensure requirements in order for the license to qualify for reciprocity.

Reciprocal Journeyman Licenses:

- South Dakota Journeyman license may reciprocate to an Iowa Journeyman Class A license, or an Iowa Journeyman Class A license may reciprocate to a South Dakota Journeyman license.
- Minnesota Class A Journeyman license may reciprocate to an Iowa Journeyman Class A license, or an Iowa Journeyman Class A license may reciprocate to a Minnesota Class A Journeyman license.
- Nebraska Journeyman license may reciprocate to an Iowa Journeyman Class A license, or an Iowa Journeyman Class A license may reciprocate to a Nebraska Journeyman license.

Reciprocal Master or Electrical Contractor Licenses:

- South Dakota Electrical Contractor license may reciprocate to an Iowa Master Class A license, or an Iowa Master Class A license may reciprocate to a South Dakota Electrical Contractor license.
- Minnesota Class A Master license may reciprocate to an Iowa Master Class A license, or an Iowa Master Class A license may reciprocate to a Minnesota Class A Master license.
- Nebraska Electrical Contractor license may reciprocate to an Iowa Journeyman Class A license, or an Iowa Master Class A license may reciprocate to a Nebraska Journeyman license.